

ACE | Advice UPDATE

July 2020

The world is facing unprecedented challenges in managing the COVID-19 pandemic. At the Australian College of Educators (ACE), we are following the guidance of government health authorities to ensure the safety and wellbeing of staff, partners and everyone involved in our work.

While the College remains operational our offices remain closed. We continue to offer online information and support to our members and the broader education profession.

In line with official government advice we have:

- Cancelled all air travel
- Implemented 'social distancing' resulting in the need to run online, postpone or cancel several events
- Made changes to our workshops so they are online, postponed or cancelled. Those affected will be contacted directly
- Encouraged staff, partners and our contacts to follow official advice on personal hygiene, such as regular and thorough handwashing, and limiting contact with others

While the current situation is very challenging, ACE is well-placed to work flexibly, and we are committed to continuing to support our members.

You can contact us on the telephone, during local business hours, or via email (ace@austcolled.com.au).

ACE will continue to act on official government health advice as the situation evolves and will provide regular updates here.
